PERSONAL PROFILE & KEY SKILLS

I am hardworking, flexible, professional, smart, reliable and trustworthy. I am used to working under pressure and have the experience of working to deadlines. I am always seeking an opportunity where I can put my skills to great use while also learning at the same time. My training varies with Close Protection, Maritime Security, Surveillance, Intelligence Analysis, Security Risk Management, Firearms in both Maritime & Hostile Areas, First Aid at Work, First Person on Scene intermediate (FPOSi) and Medics in Remote Areas (MIRA) along with health and safety and hazard awareness in the work place. I hold DV clearance. My experiences come from HM Forces with tours of Iraq and Afghanistan, Merseyside Police and Close Protection, Surveillance, Intelligence and Maritime duties.

I work alone very well yet I prefer to work in a team working environment. I respect equal opportunities and would work towards any policy that an organisation has in place. I can adapt well to any role or job undertaken and will always give my best. I am an enthusiastic team player and have the ability to motivate people, communicating with other people, strong determination to work, the ability to think and react quickly and excellent customer service skills. I like to remain positive and reliable at all times.

EXPERIENCE

I have served 17 years with HM Forces, mainly reserves. I joined 33 Signal Regiment when I left school in 1999 at the age of 17. During my time in 33 Signal Regiment I have remained active, dynamic and dependable. I worked full time at the barracks working alongside my regular counterparts. I always engaged in military competitions and was a key player in the Regimental shooting team. In May 2004 I got an attachment to 2 Signal Regiment to serve in Iraq on Op Telic IV where I worked with a small efficient team consisting of various cap badges escorting engineers to and from locations throughout Basra, Iraq and Kuwait Airport. I enjoyed my tour and as a result I received an excellent report and I was promoted to Corporal.

In March 2006 I joined Merseyside Police and created a talent for gathering intelligence on various criminals and drug dealers. This later led to having attachments to the Intelligence office and playing an analytical key role within the department. During my time within Merseyside Police I improved my knowledge about various aspects of law, gathering intelligence, crime scene preservation, criminality, taking evidence and giving evidence in a Court of Law, all key skills which I have benefited from later on when working within the security sector.

In October 2007, I volunteered to go on tour to Afghanistan. I was attached to another regular unit when I went and trained with 16 Signal Regiment in Germany. In February 2008 we went out on Op Herrick 8. My role on this tour was instrumental and at times challenging looking after various communications equipment and seeing that they were dispatched to all locations throughout the country. The majority of the time it had to be sent on a top priority and this meant escorting the equipment myself being resourceful in making sure it had got to its correct location. Another important role I found myself undertaking was escorting crypto material.

In late 2010 I completed a Close Protection Course followed by a Surveillance & Intelligence Course and then a level 4 Diploma in Private Investigation. I immediately established myself with employment with CTR, the company I did my courses with as a Close Protection Officer providing one on one security to telecommunications engineers working in areas that consisted of high crime rates and known for trouble. I have also taken on other various security roles in and around the Liverpool area. I have worked on several assignments looking after high profile persons at venues in Liverpool including several actors & actresses, Olympic athletes and both Liverpool and Everton football clubs.

I have done a lot of security work for Frontier Corporate Risk on a well known shipping container line at Liverpool docks. The role consisted of searching the vessel when docked, keeping the area secure, checking passes of persons and searching all vehicles and cargo entering the sterile area. More recently this year has seen a rise in stowaways trying to climb aboard vessels in Gothenburg and Antwerp meaning I as part of a security team that travelled to these cities to board the vessel and provide security from port and throughout the vessel's transit into Liverpool.

Upon completion of the Surveillance Course I also took up employment as a lone surveillance operative. I took up cases from a large range of clientele varying from solicitors to business owners to members of the general public. Many of my cases consisted of benefit fraud, marital problems, internal theft and tracing people. I am still serving with the reserves but most recently I have transferred from the Royal Signals and joined the Intelligence Corps to seek new challenges and at present I am now an Intelligence Analyst within the Corps. I am currently looking to expand on my training, skills and career prospects further into the close protection industry.

HOBBIES & INTERESTS

During my spare time I like to get out a lot. I enjoy travelling, keeping active and embracing the outdoors. Although I am an outgoing person, I also enjoy taking some quiet time to do a bit of reading, writing, paying attention to current affairs, studying, listening to music and watching movies. I really enjoy writing and to date I've had several fiction books published with more to come. I also enjoy time with my family which during the last few years have seen me get married and the birth my daughter in August 2014 and go through two adoptions.
